

Announcing NWS Spotter Training Sessions

The National Weather Service is conducting several weather spotter training sessions this October. The training sessions are for weather enthusiasts who would like to be volunteer weather spotters for the National Weather Service as well as current NWS spotters. All spotter training sessions will begin at either 6 or 7 PM and will include a 45 minute training presentation with a 10-15 minute question and answer session. Spotter sign-up sheets will be available at each talk for those interested in joining the program.

If you would like to attend one of the sessions, please RSVP by calling 805-988-6615 x466. Please leave a message indicating your name, spotter ID (if already a spotter), phone number and which session you will be attending. The NWS in Oxnard looks forward to seeing you at one of the training sessions.
